- State:
1. The Sharepoint ribbon provides access to tools and options based on the user's permissions and is visible on every page.
  2. Clicking on the L logo will take the user to the L home page.
  3. Users can perform a global search by default or narrow their search to specific categories: People, Conversations, and Videos.
  4. Each link in the primary navigation takes users to a landing page containing a summary or outline of the content in that section.
  5. The global news header displays important news items that are relevant to most or all Libbey locations. A photo accompanies each story. Stories will rotate automatically based on a timer, but they can also be changed via the bullets under the intro text or the left/right arrows on either side of the page. A maximum of 5 stories is recommended.
  6. The weather web part will display current weather conditions based on the user's location. Fahrenheit or Celsius readings will also be based on the user's location.
  7. The stock status web part will display the current value of Libbey stock, updated at timed intervals throughout the day.
  8. My Applications is a custom list of the current user's most commonly accessed applications. Users can edit this list, adding and removing application links as necessary, but the number of items displayed is capped. Clicking "View all / edit applications" takes the user to a page that contains the full list of applications accessible by that user and a form for editing the My Applications list.
  9. The Regional News section displays news relevant to the user based on their location (e.g., employees in Mexico will see news items specific to the Mexico office). If there is no news for the user's region, this section will not be present.
  10. Quick Links is a static list of links that most users are expected to access frequently. Sharepoint administrators control this list, it is not user-configurable.
  11. Blogs will be split into 3 primary categories: Executive, Corporate/HR, and Subject Matter Experts. The latest blog posts will appear in the Blogs section on the home page, and the blog overview page will contain a complete list of all current blogs.
  12. All primary Libbey locations will have their local time displayed in this list of time zones.
  13. The user will see a summary of the latest discussion topics available to them.
  14. A summary of the latest press releases is displayed. The latest release has an associated image.
  15. Administrators will be able to post surveys for users to answer. The current survey is displayed, and users can select an option and click the "Vote" button to see the results, or click the "View Results" button to skip voting and go straight to the results. The overview page displays the results of the current survey as well as past surveys.
  16. The event calendar displays the current month's events, with up to 2 items per calendar day and a "More..." link to let users view the entire list of events for that day if there are more than 2. The current day is highlighted for easy scanning.
  17. The global footer contains the L logo and an expanded primary navigation structure with links to all secondary pages.

State:

- The Search Center search results header contains a duplicate of the search form that resides in the header, and the text input is populated with the term that the user originally searched for. It also contains an Advanced Search link that lets users provide more specific search parameters and a Preferences link that lets users set their default search preferences.
- The left navigation contains various filters that allow users to narrow their search results based on common parameters. Examples of available filters include site collection, document type, author, and last modified date.
- The total number of results is displayed next to the results pagination navigation.
- Search results include the page/document title, a brief preview of the page's content based on its meta data, and the URL of the page/document.
- When the user hovers over a search result, a large thumbnail preview of the page appears (applies to content pages only, not documents/files).

- State:
1. A prominent header clearly establishes the user's location within the L's hierarchy.
  2. Each landing page has left navigation that lists all of that section's interior pages. The current page is highlighted for easy scanning.
  3. The main focus of the Newsstand landing page is Libbey News, which showcases news items related to Libbey and the industry in general. There are links to individual feature articles followed by a link to the Libbey News overview page. The primary news item takes center stage and has an associated image.
  4. The Organizational Announcements section provides an area for news items focused around a particular employee--new hires, promotions, anniversaries, etc.
  5. Ask Libbey Leadership presents a brief summary of that week's questions for the executive team and a link to the overview page containing the actual questions and answers.
  6. The Blogs section has introductions to the latest blogs from Leadership, Corporate/HR, and Subject Matter Experts, with links to the top 2 individual blogs as well as the Blogs overview page.
  7. The Press Releases section provides links to the latest Libbey press releases and a link to the Press Releases overview page.
  8. The Survey section displays the latest survey and gives users the opportunity to participate. The results from the previous survey are displayed as well, and the "More surveys..." link sends users to the Surveys overview page.

Your First Day

Integer ornare interdum tortor, eget faucibus elit dictum ac. Cum sociis natoque penatibus et magnis dis parturient montes, nascetur ridiculus mus. Fusce in eleifend neque. Nullam nec purus a purus consequat gravida et a eros.

Things to do:

1. Turn in all your forms (see the New Hire Forms section below).
2. Go to the security desk and get your permanent badge (see the Security section below).
3. Have your supervisor introduce you to your new coworkers. You'll probably meet a lot of people, so search the Employee Directory and Org Chart if you forget anyone's info.

State:

1. The Table of Contents builds automatically based on the sections on the page, headers become primary categories and subheaders become subcategories. Each link in the Contents section drops the user down to that section on the page.
2. Each page contains a timestamp denoting the last person to edit the page and the time it was edited. Editing tools are accessed via the Sharepoint ribbon.
3. Users can provide a star rating for each wiki page.
- 4a, 4b, 4c, 4d Content sections within wiki pages can be customized based on the content's requirements. A few layout suggestions are presented here.
- 5, 6. Section headers and subheaders can be entirely custom, but maintaining "See Also" and "External Links" sections on each wiki page to provide users with consistently formatted additional information is recommended.

State:

1. FAQ content is split into logical top-level categories for easy scanning and subcategories for further organization. Each subcategory name is a drop-down link that drops the user to the correct position on the page for viewing that subcategory.
2. Users click individual questions to reveal the answer with a window shade animation. Clicking the question again hides the answer.
3. "Back to Top" links return users to the FAQ navigation at the top of the page, a helpful tool on lengthy FAQ pages.
